City Attorney Releases New ‘Mosey’ Video

Neighborhood documentary highlights Clintonville

COLUMBUS, OH— Columbus City Attorney Richard C. Pfeiffer, Jr. has embarked on another one of his patented “moseys” and he’s invited the public to come along for the ride as he journeys through Clintonville.

The latest installment of the “*Moseying with Rick Pfeiffer: Exploring Columbus Neighborhoods*” video series welcomes viewers to join City Attorney Pfeiffer, a Clintonville resident for most of his life, on a nostalgic tour that features some of the unique people, places, and businesses that help make this part of Columbus “more a state of mind than a city....”

“All it takes to mosey is a curious mind and a genuine interest in getting to know more about the people and places around you,” said City Attorney Richard C. Pfeiffer, Jr. “If nothing else, I hope our videos show that sometimes you can broaden your horizons right in your own backyard.”

City Attorney Pfeiffer initiated the two-part Clintonville episode, which is the sixth chapter in his ongoing video series, at the invitation of Libby Wetherholt, chair of the Clintonville Area Commission.

“I really appreciate Libby reaching out and inviting us to highlight some of the wonderful assets that the Clintonville community has to offer,” Pfeiffer said.

From reminiscing about his childhood days attending Glenmont, Crestview, and Dominion schools while offering rapid fire history lessons, to interviewing small business owners and random citizens, to trekking into the pastoral retreats of Clintonville’s ravines, City Attorney Pfeiffer’s latest mosey covers a lot of ground both literally and figuratively.
